Lockhart, Texas.—Dear Haphammer: I have never written in the Haps page, but have been reading it for four or five years. I decided to write teday, I think the club is very nice, sitaough I think it would be still more so to select the points of both siles of a contest, and the side that gets the most points win, because it does not do so much good just to vote. I think the vetes should not be counted unless they can give a point. I expect I had better aust about what I think. Now for the coutest, i think we should not her ansa about what I think. Now for the coutest, i think we should not try the hide our name, for it is the name our parents gave us, and if we are ashamed of our name we should not write. The boli werell is in the country, but I hope it will not do any more damage than it has at ready done, although it has not done much as yet. I guess we will both poison and pick up the squares. Every one should rend the collers's letters. It is very imperiant. We should read them whether we read any of the rest or not, I think, or rather know, that all of the months are pretty, so I will not give my opinion on that contest. I will be giad when the watermelous get ripe, and when the roastingers come in. I was it years old last september. Hoping some of the cid Haps will write again, I remain, your true Hap.
